Part 3

Questions 19 to 26 are based on the following passage.

Read the passage carefully and choose the best answer A, B, C or D.

For each question, mark your answer on the answer sheet.

My First Thrift

Believe it or not, I had never even heard of the word thrifting before it became a trend among teenagers today. I only came to understand what made it so interesting until I experienced it myself for the first time buying a premium jacket at a cheaper price. What I once assumed to be nothing more than buying old and unwanted items turned out to be a completely new experience—something unfamiliar, exciting, and unlike anything I had encountered before.

It all started when I saw an advertisement for a new thrift shop in town and my friends invited me to go there. At first, I was unsure whether I should go because I preferred shopping at a regular shop where everything was new, labelled and neatly arranged. However, my friend kept insisting that I would enjoy it, so I decided to give it a try just for the experience.

When we arrived, I was immediately surprised by the atmosphere. The place was a spacious indoor thrift market, brightly lit and neatly arranged, with rows of stalls stretching across the hall. It was crowded with people, especially teenagers, all browsing through racks of clothes, baskets of shoes, and tables filled with accessories. Soft background music played while sellers called out friendly promotions, adding to the lively mood. It did not feel old or dull at all. Instead, it felt vibrant, energetic, and almost like a treasure hunt where everyone was searching excitedly for something unique and valuable.

As I walked around, I did not know where to start. There were so many items everywhere, and at first, I felt a little overwhelmed. My friend, however, was very experienced and started showing me how to look through items properly. She taught me to check the quality of fabrics, inspect for hidden defects, and carefully go through each rack instead of rushing.

She also explained that thrifting requires patience, as the best finds are often hidden among plain-looking items that others may easily overlook. According to her, some of the best items are not always expensive and shown openly but are hidden among ordinary clothes, waiting to be found by someone who searches carefully. Finding it is like hitting a jackpot.

After some time, I began to get the hang of it. I picked up a few clothes and examined them carefully. Most of the items were simple, but I still enjoyed the process of searching. I did not expect to find anything special that day, so I was just casually browsing through the racks. Then, something unexpected happened. While going through a pile of jackets, I noticed a leather jacket that looked different from the rest. It was in excellent condition and had a well-known luxury brand label inside. At first, I thought it might be fake, but after checking carefully and asking the shop owner, I realised it was authentic.

I was shocked when the owner told me the original price of the jacket. It was extremely expensive, something I could never afford in a regular store. However, the thrift price was unbelievably low compared to its original value. My hands were slightly shaking as I held it, unable to believe my fortune. My friend was just as surprised and kept telling me how lucky I was. Without thinking too long, I decided to buy it immediately. I felt a mix of excitement and disbelief, as if I had just discovered a hidden treasure. That moment completely changed my perception of thrifting. It was no longer just about second-hand items; it was about unexpected discoveries, creativity, and giving forgotten things a new life.

As I continued browsing after that, nothing else compared to my “lucky find.” I still enjoyed looking around, but I kept thinking about the jacket and how unusual the experience had been. By the end of the day, I had bought the jacket along with a few smaller items. More importantly, I left the thrift market with a memorable experience that I would never forget. It was exciting, surprising, and unlike any shopping trip I had ever been on.

My first thrifting experience completely changed my perception. What I thought would be an ordinary outing turned into an unforgettable experience, especially because of the rare item I discovered. It taught me that sometimes, the most unexpected places can lead to the most exciting discoveries. It also made me realise that valuable things are not always found in obvious or expensive places, but often appear when we are patient and willing to explore. From that day on, I learned to appreciate the beauty of second-hand items and to look at things with a more open mind.

- 19 What did the writer think thrifting was before experiencing it firsthand?
- A Buying second-hand items that people no longer use
 - B Looking for rare branded fashion pieces in markets
 - C Thrifting has been trending for quite some time
 - D Shopping for discounted new clothes in stores

 - D It felt plain and boring.
- 22 How could the writer thrift better?
- A Act quickly before items are taken
 - B Compare prices among items
 - C Focus on the best items first
 - D Examine each item carefully

- 23 According to the writer, the phrase 'hitting the jackpot' means
- A getting the valuable items is easy.
 - B discovering hidden valuable items.
 - C locating valuable items in plain sight.
 - D searching carefully for the valuable items.
- 24 What made the leather jacket particularly special to the writer?
- A It was an expensive item found in excellent condition.
 - B It was a rare item found in the shop.

From Online Startup to Fashion Success: The Story of Christy Couture

The company Christy Couture is a well-known Malaysian fashion brand that focuses on shoes, handbags, and accessories. It was founded by Christy Couture, a young entrepreneur with a passion for design. She wanted to create products that were both stylish and comfortable for daily use. Over time, the brand has become popular among Malaysians.

Christy Couture began her journey in the early 2010s while working a full-time job. At first, she designed shoes as a small side business from home. 27. This allowed her to reach many customers without high costs. Her simple beginning showed that small ideas can grow into big businesses.

In the early stages, the company focused mainly on e-commerce. Customers could browse and order products easily from their homes. This approach helped the brand grow quickly across Malaysia. 28. As demand increased, the business continued to expand.

One key factor in the company's success was its attention to customer feedback. Christy carefully listened to what her customers wanted. She did not only listen to positive comments, but also paid extra attention to the negative ones. Based on all the input given, she improved her designs to meet their needs and preferences. The company also introduced custom-made shoes for a more personal experience. 29.

As the brand became more successful, Christy Couture opened physical stores. One of the main locations was in Kuala Lumpur, where many shoppers could visit. Currently, she has over 22 stores in South East Asia. These stores allowed customers to see and try the products in person. 30.

The company later expanded its product range beyond shoes. 31. ☐ These new products attracted a wider group of customers. The brand also worked with other designers on special collections. This kept the brand fresh and exciting in the market.

Today, Christy Couture is seen as one of the successful local brands in Malaysia. 32. ☐ The brand continues to grow and improve its products. It shows how passion and hard work can lead to success. Many young entrepreneurs look up to this story as motivation and continuously approach her for tips and advice.

- A. She started selling her products online through social media platforms.
- B. As a result, this helped to increase customers' trust in the brand.
- C. She began offering a range of shoes that fit different purposes.
- D. Its journey from a small online shop to a recognised company is inspiring.
- E. Many people were attracted to the stylish yet affordable designs.
- F. It introduced handbags and accessories that matched its fashion style.
- G. She converted her living room into a workshop to design her bags.
- H. This helped build strong relationships with suppliers.
